MILITIA.

The following is a synopsis of a report laid before Congress, by the acting secretary of war, on the subject of the militia, pursuant to a vote of the last session: That the militia be divided into four classes: those between the age of 13 and 20, to be called the minor class; those between the age of 21 and 31, the junior class; those under 31 and under 45, the senior class: the minor class shall be liable to be called into the service of the United States, within the state or territory to which they belong; the senior class shall be liable to serve at the call of the United States, in the state or Territory to which they belong, and in those adjacent—those of the junior class shall be liable to do any duty by the constitution required of the militia, or in other words, shall be at the disposal of the executive, to be fed, armed and equipped when in the service, by the government.—The minor and junior classes shall be assembled once a year to do military duty, and shall be subjected to the same discipline as the army—to be at such times subsisted and equipped at the expense of the United States, and be regularly encamped for a given period of time, when the militia of the other two classes shall attend and be instructed as infantry. Arsenals and military depots shall be erected, munitions provided in each state or territory, for the use of the militia at such seasons, for which the several states shall be accountable to the war department. Whenever the U. States shall be invaded, or whenever the President thinks that there is imminent danger of invasion, he shall be authorized to call out as many of the militia as he shall deem necessary to repel it. Whenever combinations are formed for obstructing the laws of the laws of the United States, too powerful to be repressed by the judiciary, or by the Marshals, the president shall call forth such portion of the militia as he shall judge necessary for that purpose. If there is an insurrection in any stste or territory, against the goverament thereof, the president may, on application of the legislature, or in their absence, of the executive thereof, call forth such portion of the militia as he shall judge necessary to repress the insurrection. Whenever the militia are so called out they shall be subject to martial law. Any officer who shall then disobey the president's orders or of a superior officer, shall for the first offence, forfeit a certain portion of his wages, and be rendered incapable of holding any military office for a given period of time, or for life as shall be adjudged by the court martial. Every officer, commissioned and uncommissioned private, who shall be detached, and shall disobey the president's orders in any of the aforesaid cases, or the orders of a superior officer shall be tried by court martial, we presume as one guilty of mutiny: and if they refuse to march and join their corps, shall receive sentence of death; substitutes, however may be provided in such cases. It is further provided, that no writ or civil process from any court of the U. States, shall be served upon any man while in the service, nor shall his property be taken. All offences by the officers, non-commissioned officers or privates, after their detachment for the service of the United States, before their assembling at the appointed places of rendezvous, shall be tried by courts composed of militia officers only, of the state or territory to which they belong, not in the actual service of the United States. All offences committed while in actual service, shall be tried by militia officers in actual service, if the offender is absent, a copy of the summons left with some person at his usual place of abode, shall be a competent service.—These are the principal outlines of the report.

Now if we rightly comprehend this report, the President of the United States has only to sign his name to a proclamation, to put whatever part of the U. S. he pleases under military law. He may state his apprehensions of an invasion, and before congress can assemble to judge of the reasonableness of his apprehensions, we are under martial law. From that moment our rights and liberties, the trial by jury, are to be surrendered up, for then the orders of the president become of themselves a law. Congress have, according to this report, nothing to do with the business—the president, the moment his hat is mounted with a cockade, forestalls all deliberation, and declares that his own will is superior to the law. When power is so liberally bestowed, pretexts are never wanting for its exercise. An apprehension of an invasion from a foreign enemy, or from the Indians, is the watchword to dispense with our freedom rights, and to make our chief magistrate the supreme arbiter of our lives and fortunes. We have ministers at foreign courts, God knows in abundance, whose duty it is to give early information of the auspicious or malignant policy of the governments to which they are sent. Foreign governments are at three thousand miles distant, over a space where the broad Atlantick pours his billows, on every side and embraces a whole continent with his cerulian arms for its protection. Yet with all these guards, the terms of invasion of a foreign enemy, is mentioned as familiarly as if only a few hours were required to accomplish that object—as if our ministers could not observe the progress of events, and sound the alarm in season for congress to assemble—as if, with all the channels of information, public and private, such an event could possibly happen without previous information—Of the danger of invasion, the president is thus made the exclusive judge, and congress, if they sanction such a report, not only formally renounce for themselves their constitutional privileges, but give to our chief magistrate a bill of sale of the lives and fortunes of their constituents.—Fed. Rep.

FROM A LONDON PAPER.

Belvoir-Castle, the splendid mansion of the Duke of Rutland, near Grantham in Lincolnshire, was destroyed by fire on the 25th Oct.—It was only insured at 40,000*l* the paintings alone were said to be worth twice that sum!

It is perhaps known to but few, that there lives still on the frontiers of Transylvania, a Roman colony, which has preserved its language almost pure, and is proud of its descent. When any member of this colony enlists into the Austrian service, he answers to the usual question, whence he comes? I am a Roman (Romanus.)

Prince Blucher has been visiting his native country, Mecklenburg; and on the 10th of August he was entertained with a grand dinner by the Duke of Mecklinburg, at Dobberan. On this occasion the Duke proposed as a toast—"To all brave Mecklinburgers."—Prince Blucher thanked him in his own name and that of his fellow countrymen. God, he said, had been pleased to make him contribute to the deliverance of the world from the yoke of slavery.

"Moreover," added the prince, "I have now attained that, which, amidst all the circumstances of my life, I have had deeply at heart. I am now free and happy in the land where I was born, where I passed my boyish days, where the bones of my worthy forefathers rest. O God! thou knowest how I have longed to pray by the side of their tomb, before I myself drop into the grave. Thanks be to thee that now I can and will do so. I wish for nothing more; I have already attained more than I deserve."

Prince Jerome of Montfort, alias the King of Westphalia, alias Mr. Jerome Bonaparte, passed through Vienna on the 20th going to Hanesburgh, to visit Madame Murat, his sister, whence he will go to Brunn. He was preceded by the arrival at the Custom-House of 150 packing cases, belonging to him, many of which are said to contain works of art of great value. Have we not always said that your revolutionizing was the best trade extant?

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THE EPERVIER.

Mr. Taylor of New-York, offered for consideration the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee on Naval Affairs be instructed to inquire into the expediency of providing by law for the settlement of the accounts of the officers and crew of the United States' brig Epervier, supposed to have been lost at sea.

Mr. Taylor remarked, on this motion, that all must recollect with what pain and anxiety the arrival of this vessel had been expected and hoped for, on her return with dispatches from the Mediterranean. From the lapse of time since that period, the last ray of hope glimmering in the bosoms of the friends of the officers and crew of that vessel had become extinct, and the persons on board had now been long given up for lost. Among them there was a young man of the name of Melancthon W. Bostwick, who was purser on board the vessel. On the breaking out of the late war, said Mr. Taylor, he felt a disposition to signalize himself in the service of his country. He entered the naval service a volunteer, and was placed on board the frigate Essex. In the various instances in which that frigate distinguished herself, Bostwick bore a distinguished part. Without the aid of friends or patronage, by his good conduct on every occasion, he soon attracted the attention of the very distinguished commander of that vessel. After the capture of the Essex, he was, on his return home, recommended and appointed a Purser in the United States' service. There was committed to his charge money for recruiting for the Epervier, and he was distinguished by the accuracy and attention with which he discharged the duties of his appointment. His papers, his money, and all his accounts, Mr. T. said were at the bottom of the ocean. It was due to the feelings of his friends and connections, that their regret at his loss should not be increased on his being placed on the books of the Department as a defaulter, on account of the disaster which destroyed at the same time his life and his accounts. It was not necessary, Mr. T. added, to say any thing on the subject of extra allowance to the heirs of those who had thus perished, as that subject would present itself to the naval committee. But, at any rate, it was fit that some provision should be made for the adjustment of the accounts of the deceased, which could not be settled at the Navy Department, without the interference of the Legislature.

The resolve was agreed to.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 17.

In Senate.

A motion, submitted yesterday by Mr. Williams was agreed to, instructing the committee on the judiciary to enquire into the expediency of amending the law regulating the intercourse with the Indian tribes, and that the committee have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

A motion submitted by Mr. Lacock yesterday, was agreed to, for instructing the same committee to enquire into the expediency of dividing the state of Pennsylvania into two judicial districts, and establishing a district court of the United States at the city of Pittsburg, in the county of Allegheny.

COUNTERFEITERS.

Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's.

We published from the Philadelpnia Gazette a paragraph relative to the late apprehension of some of those ingenious gentlemen by which the public and ourselves were led astray, for though we render all due eulogy to the patrole, it appears they were not the persons who arrested these night-working gentry. We are always ready and willing to apologize for errors which we commit, but it is rather hard that we must apologize for others. However, as we were always good-natured souls, we present the following correct statement for ourselves and the Gazette.

Having received some information, Jno. Hart, High Constable, John Hufty, and John M'Lean, city constables, and A. Thompson, and Wm. Harvey, constables of Southwark, with three volunteer citizens, went on Sunday night, in pursuit of counterfeiters. They caught five, and took with them about $500 in spurious bills; it appears they have followed the occupation for some years.

On the same night, the same officers apprehended three of the incendiaries who have infested our city. These have turned out to be convicts from N. York, and are the very persons who politely offered Mr. Knerr and the young lady in Cherry-street the use of their snuff! The lady swore to one of them. We congratulate the citizens on the apprehension of these villians, and offer our tribute to the enterprize of the civil officers and citizens engaged. True Amer.

We learn that it was capt. Downes of the navy, and not capt. Gordon, who lately died in the Mediterranean.——Lieut. Kunn of the marines has been killed in a duel with some foreign officer.—Col.

New-York, Dec. 17.—On the authority of a letter from Philadelphia, we state that a marine officer has commenced shipping men for the Franklin, of 74 guns.—It is said this ship, when manned and ready for sea, will have a complement of 1100 men, who, accorning to law, must be natives of the United Staes.

One of the precious extracts from Cobbett's Register, which has been bandied about with great glee, is that in England every tenth man is a pauper. Look at England, say they who are picking the carcass; look at England, cries every one of Uncle Sam's men: look at England—There every tenth man is a pauper. Be it so. And pray, gentlemen, how long time will it take to make it exactly so in this country, if pauperism should continue to increase here in the same ratio that it has increased the last four years. If the business of your important vocations will spare you a few leisure minutes, answer this question if you please.

[Connecticut Courant.

An historical fact worth treasuring up in memory.—Camillus was the political saviour of the old Roman republic—a man considerably resembling the American Washington. His superior merit provoked envy and hatred. Among those of his fellow citizens who opposed him and detracted from his merit, was Marcus Manlius, of him, the would be patriot of old, the Roman historian remarks:—"He was ambitious to be the greatest man in Rome, and as he could not by fair means, outstrip Camillus in the race of honour, he took the common road to absolute power by courting the populace." "He that readeth let him understand." [ibid.

A YOUTHFUL PRODIGY.

The Constellation mentions a boy at the Winchester (Virginia,) Academy of only six years of age, who has made a most astonishing progress in Geography and the use of the Globes. A visiter asserts that he proposed more than a hundred and fifty questions to this child, and received the proper answers without a single mistake. He is stated also to be equally well acquainted with the Pantheon, or history of the Heathen Gods, and that in his recitations in Geography he notices the places celebrated for their birth, their temples, their statues and exploits.

In the U. S. House of Representatives, on Wednesday, Mr. Johnson reported a bill repealing the Compensation Law; which, after some debate, was made the order of the day for the second Monday in January next. The reason assigned by the mover (Mr. Johnson) for this late day, was that the House would be more fully attended than during the approaching holiday season. By others it was observed, "that as the house had been accused of acting rashly in passing the existing law, they might be as properly reproached with cowardice by a hasty and precipitate retraction, &c."

Mississippi Territory.—It appears from the census lately taken, that the total population of the Mississippi Territory is Seventy-five thousand, seven hundred and forty six. Of this number Thirty thousand, five hundred and four are slaves.

COLONIZATION OF THE BLACKS.

The house of delegates of Virginia had a sitting with closed doors on the 14th inst. The procedure excited no little speculation. When the injunction of secrecy was taken off, it appeared that the following preamble and resolution had been adopted--ayes 137, noes 9:

Whereas, the general assembly of Virginia have repeatedly sought to obtain an Asylum, beyond the limits of the United States, for such persons of colour, as had been, or might be emancipated under the laws of this commonwealth, but have hitherto found all their efforts frustrated, either by the disturbed state of other nations, or domestic causes equally unpropitious to its success:

They now avail themselves of a period, when peace has healed the wounds of humanity, and the principal nations of Europe have concurred, with the government of the United States, in abolishing the African slave trade (a traffic, which this commonwealth, both before and since the revolution, zealously sought to terminate,) to renew this effort—and do therefore Resolve, That the executive be requested to correspond with the president of the United States for the purpose of obtaining a territory upon the shore of the North Pacific, or at some other place, not within any of the states, or the territorial governments of the United States, to serve as an Asylum for such persons of colour, as are now free, and may desire the same, and for those who may be hereafter emancipated, within this commonwealth; and that the senators and representatives of this state in the congress of the United States be requested to exert their best efforts to aid the president of the United States in the attainment of the above object:—Provided, that no contract or arrangement respecting such territory, shall be obligatory on this commonwealth until ratified by the legislature.

On motion of Mr. Mercer the injunction of secrecy was then taken off and the doors opened: Ordered that the clerk communicate the said preamble and resolution to the senate, and request their concurrence.

We are authorised to state that commodore Patterson has taken prompt and efficient measures to capture and bring in the privateer Jupiter, which a few days ago took two Spanish vessels a short distance from the Balize, and within the jurisdiction of the United States. Anxious as we are for the success of the patriots, we are not less anxious that they should be taught to respect the laws and dignity of the U. States.

Legislature. A great part of the last week has been taken up in talk about adjournment, leave of absence, and an address to Mr. Madison; three very fruitful topics of debate to members of the legislature, but not quite so fruitful of benefits to their constituents. The House of Representatives agreed to adjourn, but the Senate would not join them. Leave of absence to members has thinned the houses so as to leave somewhat above a quorum.

Mr. Leib on the 20th submitted a proposition relative to the call of a convention to amend the constitution of the state, by abridging the power of the executive.—This proposition will be found under our legislative head. Great diversity of opinion has existed in the state with respect to the call of a convention; all appear to acknowledge, the immense power of the executive requires control, that the appointment of officers throughout the state, whose aggregate revenues amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars, which are directed to sway the votes of the people at elections, is a power too enormous to rest in the hands of one man, and that the continuance of this corrupting influence is incompatible with the continuance of our republican form of government—but the difficulty has been how to apply the remedy to this without endangering the whole fabric. A majority of the people were disposed to run all risks in abridging this inordinate power a few years ago, and with the restrictions, which the proposition of Mr. Leib puts upon the convention, we cannot see why the whole people should not now approve of it.

The committee have at length brought forth the report upon the compensation bill. --It was read in the House of Representatives and ordered to be printed. When it goes abroad, every man, whatever his predeterminations respecting the compensation act may be, provided he have pretensions to taste, to judgment or integrity, will be delighted in reading one of the most admirable state papers that ever appeared in any age or country. The committee deserves not only the gratitude of the Union, but the respect of every thinking man, for the intrepidity and yet modesty with which they assert their opinions in contradiction to the clamour that has been raised against that act. In that respect the report is a dignified display of political wisdom. Nor will the man of letters be less pleased with it as a specimen of composition than the statesman for its valuable principles. For lucid arrangement, perspicuity, cogent argument, and with all these, simplicity and vigour of style, I know nothing superior to it—few indeed equal, unless we go back to those master pieces which distinguished Edmund Burke in his day, as a writer of state papers, if such a thing were possible, still more than as an orator. The impression it made on the House was astonishing; and when the short proceedings that arose out of it were brought to a close, a buzz of conversation upon its merits for some minutes precluded the possibility of the business that followed it being attended to or heard.

After the report was read, a bill was produced by the chairman of the committee, the object of which is to restore the former per diem. mode of compensation. The committee mention 12 dollars a day as being at this day a compensation not more than commensurate to allowance of six at the time that six was enacted. This bill was read twice and ordered to a committee of the whole house, but respecting the day on which it was to be brought under the consideration of the committee, a difference of sentiment arose. Mr. Nelson of Va. and Mr. Barbour; urged the adoption of to-morrow. Mr. Johnson, Mr. Grosvenor, Mr. Calhoun, Mr. Robertson, Mr. Pickering and Mr. Gaston, were for giving members more time to consider that able report; more particularly as several facts were stated in it of which even Mr. Pickering himself declared he had been, till then, ignorant; which facts, it is whispered, the committee obtained from the venerable Mr. Findley. In conclusion; the reference to the committee of the whole was made the order of the day for the second Monday in January.

For the composition of the Report, the public are indebted, to Mr. Webster.

Extract of a letter dated Mew-York, Oct. 31, 1816

"We are here very much surprised at the conversion of three reverend gentlemen of the Episcopal clergy to the Roman Catholic Church, which lately happened. It has staggered many, because they were intelligent men and of irreproachable characters; they have besides sacrificed an independent living in their own churches. The first is Dr. Rowly, at that time Rector of St. George's Church, in our city: he left this place shortly after for Europe, where, as we understand, he is gone to receive ordination, he being a single man.

"The second is Mr. Ironside, a licensed minister of that Church, but at that time acted in the capacity of a teacher in our vicinity, and had a respectable and numerous school, as he had a thorough knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages. The third is the rev'd Virgil pl. Barber. He at the time of his conversion was President of an Episcopal College in Fairfield, and was Rector of a parish adjoining. These are facts to rely upon."

Boston, December 16.--We yesterday received Newfoundland papers, and those of Halifax, to the 7th inst. They contain an account of the melancholy shipwreck on the 10th ult. of the British government hired transport Harpooner, bound from Quebec to England, on Cape Pine, near Trepassey, where the ship Comus a short time previously was wrecked. The Harpooner sailed from Quebec Oct. 27, and had on board 385 men, women and children, independent of the 4th Royal veteran battalion and detachments of several other regiments. She struck at 9 o'clock at night, and went to pieces at 11, the next morning. A few men succeeded in getting on shore in the stern boat, all the others being stove in pieces, and in the morning many more were saved by means of a rope which was carried on shore by a dog. All who attempted to swim, and all on the wreck at the time that it went to pieces, were drowned. Whole number lost 208—saved 117.

The following resolution, was offered in the House of Representatives by Dr. Leib, on the 20th inst.

Resolved, That provision ought to be made by law for the call of a convention, so to modify and amend the constitution, as to divest the governor of the sole power of appointing all officers whose offices are established by the constitution or may be established by law, and to vest the power concurrently in other hands, or to establish such a controul over appointments to office, as shall comport with the genius and safety of free government, and the independence and fidelity of its officers; and to provide a mode of future amendments being made to the constitution, to obviate the necessity of a recurrence to first principles.

To the Editor of the Federal Gazette.

SIR,

The following lines are copied from Dr. Stoughton's edition of Virgil, and are intended as a note to the 505th line of the 5th book of the Æneid. A translation is requested from some of your classical readers.

"The words malus, malum, &c. have such a variety of signification, that, for the amusement and instruction of Boys at school, the following lines may be useful:

Malum, malus, malo, mala, fit male me malo.

Malum malo mala malo quam peti majore.

Here the sense is perfect, the construction classical, and the meaning of every word different,"

Fifty Dollars Reward.

A number of persons to me unknown, have been lately trespassing on my farm, situated on Peters creek, Mifflin township, under the plea of hunting out a tract of land claimed by the heirs of William M'Maghan, the title to which never existed but in the minds of those amphibious claimants, and a few interested gentry who have been aiding in this persecution against the family of the Wrights this ten years past.

I will give the above reward to any person or persons, who will give such information as will bring to conviction, the person or persons, who, under this or any other pretence, entered the enclosure of my tenants, on said premises; threw down the fences and marked trees (as if being trees of an old survey on said farm,) as nothing but the most depraved motives could influence those who would commit such au offence against his neighbour, without notice either to me or my tenants, the latter being scarcely ever off the premises. I do forwarn all persons under any plea or claim whatever from enteing on the ground contained within either of the two surveys situated as aforesaid and late the property of Zadock Wright deceased, for the purpose of cutting and carrying away wood, coal &c. as I am determined to prosecute for every trespass of that nature, after this notice.

Valuable Real Estate for Sale.

PURSUANT to the last Will and Testament of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased, I NOW OFFER FOR SALE,

The Farm on which he resided,
On the Ohio River, in Holliday's Cove, in Brook County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land, 250 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part of the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillable part with fencing and building timber. There is between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which in good meadow land. The buildings consist in two log dwelling houses and a log barn with under story of stone. It is well supplied with very fine springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River, five miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville, and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times find a good market at his door for the produce of his farm. A part of the purchase will be required in hand, and for the remainder a reasonable credit will be given.

DOCTOR CHISHOLM's
Anti-Bilious Pills,
Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Country.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child weakly female:

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constituton.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing & great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by

J. P. & J. W. SKELTON,
